

California ASCD and Fresno County Superintendent of Schools Present:
Essential Instructional Routines to Maximize Speaking and Listening within Designated and Integrated ELD with Presenter Kate Kinsella, Ed.D.

Institute Description: Although classroom teachers and instructional coaches may have studied the new California ELD standards and perused resources within the appendices, many remain significantly challenged to design and implement effective lessons that bolster academic speaking and listening competencies within either a designated or integrated ELD course of study. One unfortunate consequence is that ELD instructional decisions may amount to who should be teaching what and when, rather than the consistency and integrity of the instructional practices used to advance language and learning throughout the school day. Another outcome is that English learners are constantly adjusting to new classroom activities and strategies that prevent them from reaping the purported academic benefits.

Drawing from research and extensive classroom practice, Dr. Kinsella will focus on a core set of instructional routines appropriate for any ELD curriculum or content area or grade level. Participants, ideally in site-based teams, will leave with extensive practical print and digital resources to support lesson delivery, professional development, co-teaching and coaching initiatives.

Participants will learn essential ELD instructional routines including effective ways to:

- ◆ Provide mindful modeling of academic language throughout lesson delivery
- ◆ Engage learners at every English proficiency level in academic discussions
- ◆ Facilitate productive student interaction and collaboration with clear language targets
- ◆ Design and assign response frames that model and scaffold competent communication
- ◆ Encourage thoughtful elaboration and justification during lesson discussions
- ◆ Guide students in constructing brief written responses using academic register
- ◆ Integrate accountable listening tasks with clear language targets
- ◆ Set up lesson tasks with verbal clarity, visual support, and requisite modeling
- ◆ Check for comprehension of lesson expectations and focal content
- ◆ Monitor language production during student interactions and class discussions
- ◆ Provide timely, actionable feedback on verbal production errors
- ◆ Write effective language objectives addressing academic interaction demands
